

I Still in dreary Luxembourg.

To my darling wife, Jan. 11, 1945

Well honey, here I am again. Just a few lines today darling, for I don't have much time. I'm still in good health honey, and my morale is still high. The only thing wrong is honey I'm so very lonesome for my little honey. Oh yes dearest, I'm so very much in love with you. If I could only be with you right now honey, I'd be so damn happy. Just me + my little mammie alone. I'd be the happiest people in the world. Honey, you'd said once that you never dreamed that you could be as happy as you are. Well honey when I fall in love with you, I know your circumstances & how you felt. I told myself that I'd try to make you the happiest girl in the world. And dear, I've tried everything, & I hope I've succeeded.

Five art deas. Mail just got up to us.
25 letters. 13 from you & 12 from the rest all
put together. your latest in the 20 of Dec.
And honey I'll take time at sometime now & read them & answer them tomorrow if I can.
So dear I'll close for today. So darling bye now & remember I love you with all my heart. This isn't too long a letter, I'll try to do better tomorrow if I can. Tell Pop hello & get Nitro for me darling. Bye darling & sweetheart, I love you so very much.
P.S. Love of Peter honey your ever loving husband
Jim
